Truman Wishes U. S. Delegation Success in Pan-American Meeting.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13—President Truman sent the United States delegation off to the Pan American security meeting in Rio de Janeiro today with his best wishes for "a successful conference."

"I come to bid you gentlemen farewell, and wish you a happy and successful trip and a successful conference," Mr. Truman told the departing delegates at Washington National airport.

"I am glad to have this delegation as it has so many times in the past—working for peace in the world, particularly in the Western Hemisphere."

The United States delegation to the conference, opening in the Brazilian capital Friday, is headed by Secretary of State Marshall and includes Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich) of the senate foreign relations committee and Warren R. Austin, U. S. delegate to the UN security council and former Republican senator from Vermont.

Marshall Replies

Secretary Marshall, replying to the President's brief, informal speech, said he and his colleagues are flying south "in the interest of what is very important in the world of today—the solidarity of the Western Hemisphere nations."

The Rio conference, which Mr. Truman himself may address when he attends the closing phases, was called to write a formal military defense treaty for this hemisphere.

Senator Vandenberg said "I anticipate that Rio will restore active Pan-American unity—all for one and one for all against any Western Hemisphere aggression.

"I also anticipate that Rio will set an excellent example to our parent organization, the United Nations, as to how peace-loving neighbors, big or little, should cooperate."

The Sacred Cow left the airport at 8:16 a. m. (eastern standard time).

Truman To Join

Mr. Truman himself will fly to the Brazilian capital later this month or early in September to address one of the final sessions of the conference, called to write a formal military defense treaty for this hemisphere.

Due to open Friday, the conference will be the first meeting of the foreign ministers of the American republics since 1942 when they gathered to declare their unity in the war against the Axis.

The foundation for the Rio assemblage was laid two years ago in Mexico City. At that time the Act of Chapultepec was drafted to meet the problems of war and peace facing the nations of the new world.

The treaty will define aggression from within or outside the hemisphere and will describe means for meeting and putting down any aggressor who threatens the peace of the united American Republics.

It is expected to provide that two-thirds of the governments must approve before any action is taken against any future aggressor. There will be no big power veto.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 13—Some diplomats here for the Quitandinha inter-American conference on hemisphere defense, which opens Friday, predicted today that Argentina would insist that measures for economic cooperation—a possible "Marshall plan" for Latin America—be included on the agenda.

The United States, already heavily committed to economic aid for Europe and Asia, was expected, on the other hand, to insist that such deliberations be put over for the conference scheduled for January in Bogota.

BRITISH TORIES FEAR NEW BILL

Suggest Special Parliament Session To Check Abuses of Power.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 13—Conservative members of the house of lords rallied behind a motion for a special summer session to guard against abuse of the Labor government's new "crisis powers" as parliament prepared to recess today after one of the most momentous sessions in its history.

While the house of lords, sitting by itself, would have little control over any government action, the Marquess of Salisbury, Conservative leader, said he believed it should meet again in three weeks, if only to keep an eye on the situation.

"If the other house is not willing to take such a course, it is entirely their affair," he declared. "We in this house must regard ourselves as trustees of the British people."

Considers Amendments

Before action on the motion for a summer meeting, the house of lords was scheduled to consider possible amendments to legislation giving the government almost unlimited powers to deal with Britain's growing economic crisis.

The possibility appeared slight, however, the lords would attempt any major modifications of the measure. If there are any amendments, the house of commons, which gave the bill final approval yesterday, will be on hand to dispose of them.

While the government thus was assured of the powers it requested to cope with the economic situation, the end of the parliamentary session found it showing signs of slowing down on the road to socialism along which it has been leading the nation.

Last Night's Meteor Show Not Elaborate

At least one Marion resident viewed last night's Perseid meteors show on its annual tour, scheduled for about this time of year. The time was between midnight and 2 a. m. when what seemed to be small shooting stars could be seen in the northeastern sky. One, she reports, was quite large.

Just how clearly the meteors may be seen depends a great deal on atmospheric conditions, scientists say. Last night's visibility was not so clear, the observer stated.

Scheduled for local visibility for the first time last night, the "shooting stars" should be visible throughout the rest of the week, according to the scientists.

Detroit Transport Faces Critical Gas Supply Shortages

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Aug. 13—Emergency supplies of gasoline were reported today to be promised the city of Detroit, which must halt its municipal vehicles tomorrow unless more fuel is obtained.

The city council, in a special meeting yesterday, was informed by Rankin Peck, president of the National Congress of Petroleum Dealers, that extra rations would be granted to keep the motor city's police cars, fire trucks and municipally-operated buses on the move.

His statement came as council President George Edwards told supplier representatives "we either get gas or we get around to taking Spartan measures to meet the situation."

The "Spartan measures," it was indicated, might mean limited filling stations to four hours operation daily and seizing unused fuel stocks.

At the request of Mayor Edward J. Jeffries and Michigan's Republican Senators Vandenberg and Ferguson, U. S. Attorney General Tom Clark in Washington ordered the anti-trust division of the department of justice to conduct an investigation into Detroit's gasoline problem to see if any laws have been violated.

Marion's New Drive-In Theater Opening Set for Friday Night

Finishing touches are being applied this week to the $70,000 Drive-In theater which is scheduled to open Friday night on U. S. route 23 two miles north of the Marion city limits.

Under construction since the middle of June, the outdoor theater will accommodate 644 cars according to Horace E. Shock of Lima, president of the Summit Drive-In Theaters, Inc., owners of the new entertainment center.

The auto theater, said by Mr. Shock to be one of the largest in this part of the state, is completely ramped and surfaced with crushed stone. The screen, which measures approximately 33 by 44 feet, is erected on a supporting tower 60 feet high.

Among the latest equipment features installed at the new theater are in-car speakers which may be adapted to the convenience of car occupants, Mr. Shock said. The speakers are attached to cords mounted on posts at each parking spot and may be placed inside the car for controlled amplification.

There are 12 tiers of ramps on which cars may park. Patrons may enter and leave without disturbing vision of others at any time or waiting for the feature on the screen to end before leaving.

Other features of the Marion Drive-In are a double lane entrance and exit, modern rest rooms and a concession in the center of the field.

James S. Carmean of Lima will manage the theater. Mr. Carmean has announced there will be three changes of shows weekly. Opening night, Friday, the picture will be "Abilene Town," plus short subjects. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, "Time of Their Lives" will be the attraction and on Wednesday and Thursday "Breakfast in Hollywood" is to be featured.

Starting Sunday, first run news will be featured regularly. Screen times are at dusk 10 p. m. for the present but as days grow shorter the starting time will be gradually advanced until shows here will begin at 7 and 9 p. m. Mr. Carmean said.

Canton Editor's Killers Denied Paroles by Ohio Pardons Board

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 13—Patrick McDermott, 49, and Floyd Streitenberger, 55, convicted of first degree murder in the shooting of Don R. Mellett, Canton Daily News editor, "are not deserving of clemency," the pardon and parole commission reported to Gov. Thomas J. Herbert today.

McDermott, trigger man in the ambush slaying of the vice-crusading editor at his home, and Streitenberger, a Canton detective lieutenant at the time received parole commission consideration under a new law providing parole after 20 years hearings for prisoners serving first-degree murder sentences.

After hearing their cases, the commission reported to the governor:

"They are not deserving of clemency and were lucky to have escaped the chair for a maliciously and deliberately planned murder."

McDermott and Streitenberger were convicted of first degree murder with a recommendation of clemency following the Mellet slaying on July 16, 1926. The red-haired McDermott recently attracted attention by research work he is doing on tuberculosis in Ohio penitentiary.

Ben Rudner of Massillon, convicted of second degree murder in the shooting, was unaffected by the 20-year hearing rule and the commission's report did not mention him.

Louis Mazer, convicted of manslaughter in the case, turned state's evidence and was released some time ago; and Police Chief Cerenus Lengle of Canton was acquitted in a new trial.

British To Ask Easier Terms

Delegation To Begin Talks Monday on Changing Loan Agreement.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13—Secretary of the Treasury Snyder announced today discussions will start Monday with British officials in easing terms of the $3,750,000,000 American loan to Britain.

Snyder told a news conference the national advisory council on international monetary problems, headed by himself, will conduct the discussions on behalf of this country.

The British delegation, which will fly here this weekend, will be headed by Sir Wilfred Eady, special assistant to Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton.

Although no formal requests have been made, it is understood England will ask concessions which would permit her to conserve her dwindling dollar supply by increasing imports from British dominions and decreasing imports from the United States.

The present terms of the loan agreement prohibit this.

2 Other Developments

In two other developments on the international economic scene:

▶Snyder scotched "persistent rumors" in London's financial district that the treasury planned to increase its price on gold from the present $35 an ounce to $50. The secretary said there have been "no plans and no discussions" of such a move. An increase in the gold price would assist European countries with gold reserves to extend their present dollar credits.

▶The British withdrew another $150,000,000 of their U. S. loan, leaving only $850,000,000 available. At the recent rate of withdrawal treasury officials estimated the loan would be exhausted in October, instead of next June 30, as contemplated.

Besides the expected proposal to increase British buying from her dominions, advance reports indicate the British delegation to the talks here may seek a modification of the loan terms which make the pound freely convertible into dollars.

Production-Crippling Auto Strike Continues

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Aug. 13 — A strike that has tied up production of two auto manufacturers continued today with no hint of early agreement between Murray Corp. of America and the CIO United Auto Workers.

Ford Motor Co. recalled the last 19,000 of its 51,000 employes laid off last week because of a shortage of parts from the strike-bound Murray plant, and set up assembly lines for the first time since Aug. 6.

However, there was no indication when 10,000 Studebaker Corp. workers idled by the Murray strike would be called back to their jobs. Ford officials said the firm could resume only limited output until the walkout ends.

UAW-CIO officials representing 7,000 Murray workers who struck nearly three weeks ago in a demand for contract provisions exempting the union from certain terms of the Taft-Hartley labor law, sharply denied management charges regarding the dispute.

Record Price for Cattle Paid at Cleveland Yard

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug. 13—A new record of $28.35 per hundredweight for cattle was set today at the Cleveland union stockyards.

William Kuhlman of Woodville, O., received a check for $8,245.60 for nine steers averaging 1,135 pounds each.

The previous high was a week ago when Peckham Brothers of Napoleon, O., sold 20 steers for $28.25 per hundredweight.

WEATHERMAN AGAIN SAYS "WARM, HUMID"

No Immediate Relief from Heat Indicated.

With the thermometer hiking to 83 at noon today and a prediction of "warm, humid today and tonight," Marionites mopped their brows a little harder and oftener and continued to glower in the direction of the weatherman.

Thursday's forecast is for partly cloudy weather with widely scattered showers. As an afterthought the weatherman added "continued warm." For the nation in general there is no prospect for heat relief before the weekend. Possibility of rainfall by tonight is predicted for Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa.

Old Sol whipped up a wicked 91 score for yesterday's reading, with a low of 72 last night. A year ago the high was 78 with a low of 51.

Heat Wave Relief Seen By Thursday Night

By The Associated Press

The midwestern heat wave will be broken by Thursday night, the U. S. weather bureau reported today.

A fast-moving mass of cool air from the northwest forced a revision of earlier forecasts which held out the dreary prospect of no relief until the weekend.

In addition, the collision between the cool air and the hot, dry air now stagnating above the great plains was expected to set off scattered thunderstorms, perhaps not heavy enough to bring much benefit to crops generally, but undoubtedly of help to farmers in some localities.

The Chicago weather bureau said temperatures in the 80's should prevail throughout the midwest by Thursday night, except for the southern sections of Ohio, Illinois and Missouri, which may not get much relief.

However, a warmup was in prospect again Friday and Saturday, but the weather bureau said it was not expected to be as extreme as the current hot spell.

STEAL INSTRUMENTS AT MUSIC SHOPPE

$430 Loss Reported in Burglary on Church St.

Musical instruments valued at more than $430 were taken last night in a burglary at the Shellhorn Music Shoppe, 126 East Church street, police report.

A mail carrier passing by the store at 6:30 a. m. today noticed the window broken and reported to police. On investigation it was found that four musical instruments and a metronome were missing.

Instruments include two trumpets valued at $245; a King soprano saxophone valued at $135 and a clarinet with case valued at $150. The metronome was said to be worth $12.50 and the glass glass window pane, bringing the loss to $432.50, the police report.

Campbell, around 32 years of age, pleaded guilty to forging several checks on local grocers and a drug store. He entered a plea of not guilty in Judge Smith's court last Wednesday following his return from the State hospital at Lima where he was found to be sane after a 30-day observation period.

He was represented in court this morning by Carter M. Patton, attorney.

Campbell, a previous offender of the law, will be taken to the penitentiary probably tomorrow, the sheriff's department stated.

PRICE PARLEY ASKED BY CIO

Inquiry Is Called Insufficient; Truman Urged To Call Conference.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13—The CIO, contending the price situation demands further action than a justice department investigation, renewed today a request President Truman call an industry-government-labor conference to seek voluntary price reductions.

Emil Rieve, chairman of the labor organization's full employment committee, said in a statement the CIO welcomes Attorney General Clark's announcement an investigation of high prices will be made.

"But many prices are set by large monopolies and monopolies do not necessarily fall under the criminal law and Clark's investigation," he added.

"For example, in the automobile industry, General Motors controls probably 60 per cent of the business and therefore is able to dictate prices.

On Capitol Hill, Rep. Crawford (R-Mich), a leading congressional critic of OPA, labelled as "fantastic" Clark's order for an anti-trust investigation into food, clothing, and shelter prices.

The lawmaker said it appears to him to be aimed at bringing about a depression at home to help foreign nations buy more goods here. He added Clark ought to turn his attention to the administration's fiscal policies which, Crawford contended, are the cause of high prices.

The National Federation of Small Businesses announced Clark's program is in line with what that organization has been urging since last spring.

Concerned Over Concentration

George J. Burger, the federation's Washington representative, told newsmen member reports indicate particular concern over "growing economic concentration in distribution businesses."

The justice department itself was silent on leads it may have uncovered to prompt Clark's promise of jail terms for any one found guilty of "conspiracies" to force prices up and keep them there.

New York spokesmen for the three industry groups said their records are clean.

SETTLEMENT HOUSE PROJECT PROPOSED

Plans Suggested for Silver St. Area.

When a meeting of the Marion Christian Youth movement was held Sunday night at Salem Evangelical and Reformed church preceding the union church service there, discussion was held on a proposed settlement house project for the Silver street area of the city. Richard Howard of Marion, president of the Ohio Christian Youth Council, and Miss Mary Queen spoke. Miss Anne Baldwin presided. A devotional service was conducted in addition to the business session.

It was reported that the project was taken to the Marion Interfaith council, an organization composed of representatives of six service clubs of the city, asking support of that group at a special called session of the council recently at Hotel Harding. The matter was presented to the council by Miss Queen. No final action was taken by the council, it was stated.

Purpose of the project is to provide a social center for children of the Silver street area where wholesome recreation will be made available in an atmosphere of Christian morals. It is proposed to hire a social worker on a yearly basis for direction of the center.

The M C Y M is meeting during the summer on the second and fourth Sunday nights of each month. Two more meetings of the summer schedule will be held, the last coming on the first Sunday of September. Rev. Emil C. Kutzley, pastor of Salem church, is ministerial advisor of this interdenominational youth group.

Barroom Dogfight Breaks Ground for Romance

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK—The young man was idly sipping a martini at the bar. His Scottie, scratched himself noisily at the base of the barroom stool.

A tall young blond girl came through the door, tugging a reluctant wire-haired terrier by his leash. She glanced swiftly over at the young man, then sat at a table nearby that gave him the benefit of her profile.

Hal Boyle

"A martini," she told the waitress.

The young man, studying her in the mirror, began to lose interest in his drink. He wondered what he could do to meet her.

Suddenly the girl's wire-haired terrier gave a yelp of surprise and collided with the Scottie. In a second the two dogs tangled in a black and white whirling blur of fur and fangs.

"Oh Spooky," wailed the girl. "You'll be killed!"

She wrung her hands as the bartender ran around and grabbed the terriers leash. The young man jerked back the Scottie and tied him to one end of the bar.

Terrier Trembles

When he came back, the girl was bent over the trembling terrier.

"Are you hurt, Spooky?" she said? "Tell me, are you hurt?"

The young man's hands brushed the girl's fingers as he knelt to examine Spooky.

"Not a scratch," he said, and then exclaimed solicitously: "Oh, your stocking. It's torn."

She said that was nothing and he said well, if she didn't have a drink with him he would think she was really mad at him. So they ordered a drink, and she said, "I'm Madge," and he said, "I'm Stephen," and she came right back "Well, that makes us even-Stephen."

He liked the way she laughed and said:

"Let's go someplace where they have music. How about the Rococo club?"

Take Dogs Home.

"I'll have to take Spooky home first," she said, and Steve said, "That's okay, but bring back the leash. I'll wear it anytime you're on the other end."

"You're cute," she said.

"Meetcha here in half an hour," he said. "I got to give Tar his vitamin biscuits and put him to bed."

They went out together and the bartender murmured to himself in the mirror.

"Nuts! Nuts! Nuts! Dogs and women—they take away all the business."

Part at Door.

They parted at the door. Madge pulled Spooky up the street and around the corner, and there was no nonsense on the way.

She dragged the whining terrier up three flights of stairs and entered a small apartment. An older woman sat polishing her nails on the studio couch.

"Well?" she said, looking up.

"It worked, Leona," laughed Madge. "Thanks for lending me your dog. The name is Stephen and he looks good up close. I'm meeting him in half an hour. Got to run now. Tell you about it later.

As Madge went back out the door, she said:

"Spooky is probably mad at me. I had to kick him headon into that Scottie to get him to do his part in the show. I'll pay him off tomorrow with a pound of hamburger."

Moral: Even dogfights can be fixed.

P. H. D. for POISON IVY

P. H. D. is a modern proven scientific method originated by doctors at the University of Minnesota for combatting Ivy, Oak, and Sumac Poisoning.

It is called an antidote because an antidote is a method for counteracting or neutralizing a poison. P. H. D. does exactly that. The ingredients in each solution neutralize the poison known as toxica dendrol, found in Ivy, Oak and Sumac. Once the toxica dendrol has been rendered harmless, nature takes over and heals the affected part. Quite naturally, the earlier this process takes place, the sooner relief is experienced. P. H. D. also acts as an antiseptic, preventing infection from other sources.

Unlike old-fashioned remedies P. H. D. heals the outer tissues and destroys the poisons underneath, and permeates to the lower skin. This eliminates the possibility of the poison from breaking out again.

5 Union Vets Ride in Parade

Ranks Thinned Since Last G.A.R. Meet at Cleveland in 1901.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug. 13—Riding automobiles instead of horses, five Union army veterans roll down Euclid avenue today where 46 years ago thousands of their long-dead comrades marched to fife and drum.

Those five men, averaging 102 years in age, were the only ones to appear at the Grand Army of the Republic's 81st annual encampment, and open-air cars were provided each man for the parade.

It was the second time Civil war veterans had led a parade in Cleveland and marked almost a pathetic contrast to the more vigorous days of 1901 when the G.A.R. held its last encampment here.

Then, a score or more of batteries rumbled alongside an estimated 30,000 to 50,000 Union army veterans on horse and afoot. Today, save for the five old gentlemen, the parade was to be comprised of mostly veterans of the two World Wars.

This time, in deference to age, the parade will be a little over 14 blocks long, and will pass straight to the Civil war monument at Public square, then up Superior avenue a block to the reviewing stand, disbanding a short distance away.

Martial music will be dispensed by the U. S. Marine band and the Fife and Drum Corps of the auxiliary from Alliance, O., and directly behind them will come Commander-in-Chief John H. Grate of Atwater, O., 102 years old.

The parade was not the only event scheduled today. Business sessions were continuing among the auxiliaries, and one subject due for a thorough airing was the old question: what should the war be called—the "War Between the States" or the "Civil War"?

At a meeting of the Sons of Union Veterans, W. C. Thobaben of Cleveland said many of his members would urge a formal protest to congress, demanding the exclusive use of the term "Civil War."

He said congress' use of the term "War Between the States" was in deference to southern states.

EGYPT ACCUSED OF STALLING IN COURT

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 13—Egypt is opposed to putting her case against Britain before the international court of justice at The Hague an authoritative source declared today.

This view was expressed as the United Nations security council gathered for the third airing of the case in little more than a week.

Sir Alexander Cadogan, the British delegate, who so far has delivered two long speeches on Egypt, was ready with an answer to an Egyptian blast delivered on Monday.

Egypt has demanded repeatedly and to terminate the joint British-Egyptian rule over the Sudan.

The British argue Egypt signed a treaty covering these points which is good until 1956 and the issue is whether any nation can break a treaty by appealing to the United Nations.

A source familiar with Egyptian policy said that Egypt is opposed to any "legalistic" settlement of the dispute. This course said the Egyptian people wanted a clean-cut decision and did not want to become involved in legal maneuverings.

The security council paved the way for a long statement on the conflict in the East Indies by deciding to seat a representative of the Indonesian republic at the council table.

The vote, taken late yesterday, was 8 to 2, with Britain, France and Belgium in the negative.

16-Yr.-Old Husband Isn't Worth Year's Jail, Divorcee Says

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, Aug. 13—Pretty 24-year-old divorcee Dolly Cox has decided her 16-year-old boy friend, Louis Kotronis wasn't worth a year in jail as she decided not to marry him, after a hair-pulling court scene in which she was attacked by Kotronis's mother.

Mrs. Cox, mother of a three-year-old child, agreed to return to her Greenville, Tenn., home and Judge Frank W. Nicholas agreed to suspend a one year's workhouse sentence but said Dolly must pay a $50 fine and court costs for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Handsome, six-foot Louis was held as a delinquent.

Dolly and her high school freshman boy friend were picked up by Detroit police last week on the complaint of Louis' uncle, at whose home the couple met while Dolly worked as a waitress in the uncle's cafe.

Louis' mother, Mrs. Effie Sirakides, spotted Dolly before court opened Tuesday, tore at her titian locks and spat in her face before sheriff's deputies could pull them apart. The younger woman did not fight back.

The couple, returned here Monday by a detective, mugged for cameramen, and Dolly, crossing her legs, said, "He's my man. I had a 25-year-old husband once, but it didn't work out. Now I'll try a younger one."

British Shift on Socialization Called Surrender To Capitalism

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The decision by Socialist Prime Minister Attlee and his cabinet to postpone nationalization of Britain's great steel industry, possibly for the duration of the country's economic crisis, is a concession to capitalistic means of recovery, which is to say "capitalistic."

The extent of that concession can be seen from the fact that nationalization of steel was one of the major items in the platform on which Socialism came to power in the general election two years ago. So important and controversial is the issue that Attlee took his decision before a private Labor (Socialist) party caucus Monday. He received approval by a margain of only four votes [illegible] to 77—while it is said that more than 100 members abstained from voting.

DewittMackenzie

This mixed attitude of the caucus makes it clear that the question of steel nationalization is far from settled, and that there is a sizable crack in Socialist solidarity. The left-wingers of the party are dead set against any compromise on nationalization, and recently have been attacking Attlee's program as inadequate and his leadership as uninspiting.

Steel Highlights Split.

The picture of steel nationalization gives us a good view of the differences which have divided the Socialist party into left and right wings. The Socialist election platform called for a moderate experiment in socialization. Only 20 per cent of basic industries were to be nationalized, leaving the rest to private enterprise—at least for the time being. Coal and steel were high on the list, but it soon became apparent that steel presented a complicated problem, being neither fish, foul nor yet good red meat.

What the Socialists wanted (at least moderate Socialists) was merely nationalization of a basic steel production. However, they promptly ran up against the proposition that nationalization in numerous instances involved not only the making of steel but the finished product manufactured from the steel. For instance, the newly made metal was kept hot while it was processed into, say bicycles.

The majority of the party wanted the bicycles and other like products left to private initiative. But try as they would, they have found no method of dissassociating the production of the molton steel from that of the bicycle, or what will you. Furthermore, they have encountered fierce opposition from big business.

So rather than interfere with the smooth flow of production in the midst of an economic crisis, the government has deferred action regarding steel. The caucus Monday was told that there was no intention of abandoning the primise to nationalize the industry, but that the cabinet should be free to choose a time which it considered opportune. Meantime "capitalism" is to carry on.

At the moment the conservative element of the Socialist party is still in the saddle. However, it is obvious that the Breech between the two wings might widen with the result that Prime Minister Attlee would find his position untenable and be forced to resign in favor of another Socialist.

Former Prime Minister Winston Churchill took cognizance of this possibility in addressing the house of commons Monday night.

Churchill demanded rejection of the so-called "economic crisis" bill which he declared conferred virtual dictatorial powers on a cabinet whose prime minister might be discarded at any moment.

"Killer" Is Happy When His Victim Is Found Unhurt

Ernest Cross, Negro, about 35, who says he hails from Atlanta, Ga., is cooling his heels in the county jail and thanking his lucky star that first impressions can't always be depended upon—and he isn't what he thought he was—a murderer.

Cross, according to his story told to the sheriff's department, got in a bit of an altercation with another man at a tavern on West Center street Monday night, and when the bout came to blows swung on his companion with a baseball bat. Thinking he had killed the man when he saw him fall, Cross took off across the city and when he landed at Bellaire Gardens, believing himself to be in safe territory, stopped at a residence and asked the occupants to call the sheriff as he had killed a man and "wanted to give himself up."

Deputies responded to the call and met Sheriff LeRoy Retterer who had been called from the Marion-Zanesville baseball game as they were returning with the "murderer." A search revealed that Cross' sparring partner had not been injured and didn't care to press charges. Cross was landed in jail for further investigation. He is employed with a work crew by the Erie Railroad Co.

NEW NEON ELECTRIC SIGN NOW ON CITY'S SKYLINE

Lettering on Loan Co. Roof Measures 16 by 25 Feet.

A new modern attraction was added to the skyline of Marion when the huge electrical sign on the roof of the Marion Federal Savings and Loan association, 134 East Center street, was turned on recently.

This big dual display, approximately 16 feet high and 25 feet long, showing both to east and west approaches, is one of the first of its kind to be erected in Marion. It is known as a neon spectacular, with the two lines "Marion Federal" in red remaining constant and the underlying words "Home Loans" in blue overlaid with the words "Insured Savings" in green and alternating in a flashing sequence, first one, then the other, flashing on and off. This flashing sequence is controlled by an electric flasher and time clock regulating the time between the flashing sequence and also automatically turning the entire display on and off at set intervals between the time of dusk and midnight.

India's New Freedom

FRIDAY will be a memorable day in the history of the British Empire as 400,000,000 Indians, one-fifth the world's population, receive their freedom. On that day Britain will yield what Winston Churchill has called "one of the fairest pearls in the royal diadem."

Hindustan and Pakistan, the two new nations of the vast Indian subcontinent, will be self-governing members of the British commonwealth with the right to secede. Both nations are torn by chaos at present, but as minority problems are adjusted within boundaries, order will come if the Indians are to prove capable of self-government.

The British labor government has received high praise for its decision in granting Indian independence, but it was apparent which way the wind was blowing. Weakened by two wars, the British couldn't have controlled rising Indian nationalism much longer. India was building up to a blow-off far more violent than the one the Dutch are trying to check in Indonesia.

Pakistan and Hindustan represent two potentially great nations. The latter alone has a population almost as great as the United States and Russia combined. By granting them independence within the framework of the empire, the British may have acquired two valuable allies.

High Cost of Peace

ALMOST unnoticed, except for an obscure story in the London Times, the League of Nations wound up its international red tape on July 31 and passed into history. There was nothing left, aside from its buildings at Geneva and some unexpected balances—no going concern value.

Last Friday, the secretary-general of United Nations sent a request to its general assembly for an appropriation of $39,403,782 to pay expenses next year. The appropriation for this year was $27,740,000, which may be compared with an annual budget of $5,650,000 at the close of the 1920's, when the league was man's last best hope for security.

The secretary-general of UN, apparently feeling called on to apologize for the rising cost of international security, explains that everything possible will be done to cut corners. He points with pride to the prospect of taking in perhaps as much as $450,000 from the sale of documents and miscellaneous items; at least that much of the $39,403,782 is potentially recoverable.

This is heartening to the citizens of a country being bemused during the hot weather by a congressional investigation of a $20,000,000 contract to build an airplane during World War II—an airplane that still hasn't flown. It is good to know that United Nations will cut corners in 1948.

We Are Waiting

DEFENDERS of capitalism have long contended that the quickest way to a postwar leveling-off would be to let prices seek their own level. Most of the results have been sorry, principally because production has been slow catching up with demand. But tires are an example of what happens when the procedure works out right.

Tire manufacturers have reduced prices below prewar levels on many popular sizes and have improved the quality of their product while catching up with demand—all this despite a 60 per cent wage increase and higher costs for materials. An industry spokesman says two factors are responsible for keeping prices down: a desire by manufacturers to hold prices to a reasonable level and the forces of free enterprise which in a competitive system works in the interests of the consumer.

Prices will drop when production catches up with demand. All right, production, we are waiting.

Something for Nothing

THE interior department announces 2,750,000 acres of land along the Alaska highway will be available to all comers beginning Oct. 2. It includes large unsurveyed areas and about 12,000 acres in 12 localities to be broken up into small plots for veterans.

But when something is offered for nothing, there's usually a catch. The department warns that virtually none of the land is suitable for farming because of climate and altitude; Canada requires special permits for travelers on its section of the road; no government funds are available for transportation of household effects; all claimants must take physical possession of the tracts and must offer evidence they will not become public charges.

It is hardly an attractive offer. A plot of thin, frostbitten soil in the fringe of civilization isn't likely to attract many pioneers in these times. And travel on the Alaska highway is such that signs like "Al's Frozen Custard—500 Feet Ahead" won't bring in enough business to keep the timberwolf from the door.

Our Interest in Britain

By MARK SULLIVAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13—The facts about Britain's economic crisis and the concern it is to us are plain enough. But as a consequence of the fact, our state department and our people are called upon to make decisions about courses. This area is as far as possible from plain; it is on the contrary made extremely difficult by baffling considerations.

Our government would like to help Britain, is in fact earnestly desirous of helping for the sake of Britain and for the sake of world recovery. One help is possible for the administration to give. It can ease some of the conditions of the 3¾-billion-dollar loan our government made to Britain a little over a year ago, so as to make the loan less onerous on Britain.

The administration can give another help, and must do so willy-nilly, in our own interest. We can take over some or all of that part of the expense of occupying Germany which Britain is now bearing, just as we have taken over the burden Britain was bearing in Greece. This would relieve Britain of an expense of some half-billion dollars a year. It would further relieve her in the sense that the British soldiers now in Germany can be brought home and added to Britain's labor force.

These things can be done by the administration. But Britain will still have need for more money, and this can only be supplied by act of congress. Congress is not due to meet again until January, unless called into special session earlier to meet not merely the British emergency but the larger emergency of which that is a part.

Up To Congress

Whether congress, after lending 3¾ billion dollars to Britain a little over a year ago, would be willing to make another loan, is a thing which only congress can decide. Their decision when made will reflect the feeling of the public, especially taxpayers.

America has abundance of money. we are in the common phrase, "lousy" with it. Our people, as private investors, would undoubtedly be willing to loan money for use in the recovery of British industry, if there were a practicable way for them to do this. They would be willing to loan the money, even if the risk of getting it back were great. Our people, as individuals, do not hesitate to invest abroad, even under circumstances of great risk.

But this is not what is asked of our people. They are asked to contribute their money, not as investors but as taxpayers. They are asked to turn it over to the American government, which in turn loans it to the British government. The loan is to the British government, not directly to British industries.

This distinction between Americans as taxpayers and Americans as investors, is a part of the world problem of our time, and this problem can be made clear by a brief bit of history.

For generations, British investors loaned money to American railroads, utilities, mines and industries. It was with loans from British investors, mainly, that American industry was developed. The relation was a happy one, an illustration of private capitalism working fruitfully on an international basis. The British had money to spare, they were a lending nation. We had need of money, we were a borrowing nation. The cooperation was part of a golden age for both countries.

All Is Changed.

Today the situation is reversed. Americans have money, they can be a lending nation. Britain, with her economic structure greatly injured by war, needs to borrow money. Loans by American investors to British industries could be as happy a cooperation as the reverse once was.

The present British government, carrying out an attempt at socialism, has made it impossible for Americans to make direct loans to British industries, in the way that the British formerly made loans to American industries. The Labor government is opposed to the existence of privately owned industries. Many important British industries have been taken over by the Labor government, and the prospect is it will take over more. This leaves few private owners of industries with whom American investors and bankers can deal, or privately owned industries upon the security of which loans can be made. Socialization of industry, in large part actual and as to the rest feared, puts an end to loans by American investors to British industries.

To recite this present condition in Britain, and the history which preceded it, while it throws light on the situation, is by no means to answer a problem, either the one arising out of the present crisis in Britain, or the larger problem which besets the world. The United States remains a capitalist nation, and by the evidence of every policy of congress is determined to remain one. Much of Europe has departed from capitalism and free enterprise, has gone over to totalitarian government of one variety or another, from the socialism of the British Labor party to Russian communism and shades between.

Instinctively we feel that in order to survive as a free enterprise nation ourselves, we must help free enterprise in Europe. Out of that condition arise most of the international problems we are called upon to meet.

Just a Minute

In Defense Of Little Red Riding Hood

The Nursery Schools Association of Great Britain is demanding that "Little Red Riding Hood" be banned because of its harmful influence on children.

The story's popularity has declined in England recently anyway, children familiar with Attlee's austerity program naturally finding it strange when the wolf eats grandma, instead of vice versa.

Not only is "Little Red Riding Hood" frightening, say its critics, but also completely unrealistic. What do they recommend in bedtime stories? Something true-to-life, like, maybe, "Forever Amber?"

What if "Little Red Riding Hood" is unrealistic? What if the woodsman does come and kill the wolf in the nick of time and everything does turn out all right in the end? Is there anything so wrong with that . . . apart, I mean, from its not being true to life.

A little later on, of course, girls should be taught that the wolves of which they must beware are more apt to be found in zoot suits than grandma's mother-hubbard.

But the story itself is a good one. And if the critics find it frightening, let them consider the modernized version, the one in which the villian is a bear instead of a wolf and the heroine, that's civilization as we know her, keeps saying: "Oh, Gromyko, what big vetoes you have!"

What About Hirohito?

Emperor's Status Uncertain as Treaty Time Nears.

By FRANK WHITE
Associated Press Correspondent

TOKYO, Aug. 13—Approach of the time for writing a Japanese peace treaty has aroused new speculation in both Allied and Japanese circles on the future status of Emperor Hirohito.

Some Allied sources estimate unofficially that the quiet little emperor has been worth a million occupation troops in maintaining order since the surrender.

On the surface he seems set to continue as monarch with his once-absolute powers stripped away by the constitution and his presumption of divinity tossed into the ash can.

There is nevertheless a renewal of talk that, after a peace treaty is signed, he might step down in favor of Crown Prince Akihito, who is now 13. All this is speculation, of course. Hirohito himself has given no indication that he is even thinking of retiring.

Those who consider the subject say that "face" and a Japanese sense of the fitness of things might call for the retirement of Hirohito, who at 46 has ruled, first as prince regent and then as emperor, for nearly 26 years.

Both Sides Have "Face"

"Face," the term for intangible Oriental considerations of prestige, may apply from both sides.

For the Allies, seeking to stabilize peace, there is the question what sort of impression will be made upon the Japanese by leaving as symbolic head of the nation a man who was in power when his subjects overran a quarter of the globe.

Would the Japanese see in this a willingness by the western powers, particularly by the United States, to make concessions in return for an opportunity to go home early?

What effect would Hirohito's retention have on the thinking of the Japanese people concerning Occidentals, or on the schemes of some future Oriental leader?

Hirohito might consider his own "face" affected because Japan was defeated under his rule, because he has been shorn of personal power, and because he has been the organ for carrying out Allied occupation directives.

HIROHITO

Shows No Shame

Far from showing any sense of shame, however, Hirohito is continuing to make tours which appear to be part of a campaign to sell the Japanese people on the idea that he is a popular monarch with the public interests at heart.

The emperor's travels could not be made without the permission of General MacArthur, supreme commander in Japan.

There is, however, a currency of talk in both Allied and Japanese circles that the surrender terms can be interpreted to mean Japan was promised continuation of the imperial house if the people wished it, but that this does not necessarily mean continuation of Hirohito himself in office.

At the current war crimes trial of former Premier Hideki Tojo and other Japanese, evidence has been presented that Hirohito backed the military when the moderates tried to put on the brakes in the 1931 Manchurian conquest.

Damaging Evidence Cited

Evidence has been given time and again that in crucial tests on policy, when the militarists thought the civil government was interfering too much, the militarists were able to take the position that they were responsible to the emperor alone.

There has been testimony that when the final die of war in the Pacific was ready to cast, the navy expressed some misgivings, but the emperor turned to Tojo and other close army advisors for reassurances of success, and ordered the attacks to begin.

Hirohito has not been charged with anything and is, of course, not on trial, but the tribunal president, Sir William Webb, recently commented, "it still remains that men who advised the commission of a crime—if it be one—are in no worse position than the man who directs the crime to be committed."

While Webb named no names, there have been recent hints that his view is shared by some powerful figures in the British commonwealth. Under the present plans, that commonwealth holds five votes in the 11-nation assembly which will write the peace treaty.

So there is speculation in Tokyo about what may eventually become of Hirohito.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Friday, Aug. 13, 1937.

Thirteen hoodoo smashing members of the Anti-Superstition society at Wheeling, W. Va., met in the eerie hours before dawn of this Friday the 13th, spilled salt, walked under ladders, raised umbrellas and chorused: "It's the bunk."

Appointment of 44 men to make a tax reappraisal of land and buildings in 15 townships and seven villages in Marion county was announced by County Auditor Harry V. Mounts.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. John K. Bartram of Forest street and a son to Mr. and Mrs. William D. Brooks of Caledonia.

A high of 86 was registered at the office of Dr. E. H. Raffensperger, Marion's official weather observed. Low reading was 60 degrees.

It was announced that Floyd Cornely of Merkle avenue, a former sales tax examiner for Marion county, had been transferred to Ashtabula as a junior examiner for the state tax commission.

Twenty-six charter members were enrolled at an organization meeting of the Marion Symposiarchs club at Hotel Harding. The membership was limited to men 25 years of age or over who were regularly initiated members of fraternities founded prior to 1870.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, Aug. 13, 1927.

J. Lewis Ellis, Marion architect, was completing plans and specifications for a proposed $75,000 remodeling of the courthouse which met defeat when submitted to voters in the fall.

Dr. Herbert F. Jackson of New York City came here to join Mrs. Jackson for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Cheney of North State street.

War against the corn borer which had been in progress in Marion county and other sections of Ohio under the federal supervision for more than a year was to be extended westward in the fall, Washington reported.

A surprise birthday party was held for E. L. Brobst at his home on South Prospect street.

The eight weeks' summer camping period of the Boy Scouts at Camp John A. Owens came to a close.

The Chosen Instrument

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THE Hughes-Brewster controversy is not germane to the investigation of war contracts, but it does arise out of a quarrel which has engaged American airlines for several years. The differences have been so acute that it is not astonishing that Howard Hughes should have attempted to focus attention on them, perhaps to divert attention from his own investigation.

Competition is a fundamental economic process in the United States, but that is not so in most countries. In fact, most countries today, even those that regard themselves as capitalistic, withdraw certain industries from competition. This principle has been applied to aviation in the international field by the selection of one company in each country to act as a "chosen instrument." Only such a company may engage in the international field. It enjoys a chartered monopoly.

Pan American has advocated that, as it pioneered in the foreign field, it become the "chosen instrument" of American aviation in the foreign field. At various times, it has proposed different combinations with other companies and finally what amounted to a cartel of all American companies. The theory behind this was that if American aviation lines competed with each other, as well as with the rest of the world, this country would soon lose out in this field. It is estimated that about as high as 75 per cent of air travel originates in the United States, but the American companies cannot possibly hold any such proportion of the business.

Conference In Chicago

An international civil aviation conference was held at Chicago in 1944, at which practically all countries, except Soviet Russia, were represented. Adolf A. Berle, Jr. represented the United States and presided. A five freedoms of the air declaration was adopted granting the contracting states these rights.

"...(1) The privilege of flying across the territory of other contracting states without landing; (2) The privilege of landing for non-traffic purposes; (3) The privilege of putting down passengers, mail, and cargo taken on in the territory of the state whose nationality the aircraft possesses; (4) The privilege of taking on passengers, mail, and cargo destined for the territory of the state whose nationality the aircraft possesses; and (5) The privilege of taking on passengers, mail, and cargo destined for the territory of any other contracting state and the privilege of putting down passengers, mail, and cargo coming from any such territory."

Under these five freedoms, foreign planes enjoy rights which foreign ships do not enjoy, as for instance, it is presumed that the fifth freedom might give the foreign plane the right to take and land passengers within the United States. At any rate, there was strong opposition to the entire business and nothing has come of this conference of a substantial character.

Opposed to Monopoly

Nor has Pan American been selected as the "chosen instrument" of American aviation in the foreign field. American repugnance for monopoly prevented that. Most of our principal aviation companies have in one manner or another entered the foreign field. The question, of course, is whether all of them will be able to keep up with their ambitions.

Aviation, as every new industry, attracts more aggressive personalities than is usual in the older and better established ones. Furthermore, while during war years there was lots of money in this field, it has not been doing too well since V-J day. The vital question in this industry is how to make an airline self-sustaining without subsidies.

But there is another factor that is generally overlooked in peacetime. The air has proven invaluable in the national defense during the war and will probably be even more important should we have to go to war again. It is essential to maintain strong civilian aviation, if we are to hold our lead in military aviation. It is necessary to provide experimental factories, air fields widely scattered, an effective nucleus of engineers, fliers and other experts. This requires government aid. The various companies vie with each other for this government aid.

Although none of this is germane to Senator Ferguson's investigation, it has done the country no harm to have had it explode. The more aviation is discussed openly, the stronger our country will be. The personalities themselves are trivial.

SH-H! I got a hot tip on the market for you. This is strictly between you and me. Listen good to Little Willie and you'll have money in every pocket.

In my favorite funny-paper—The Wall Street Journal—I came across an item that rang a loud bell in the cash register I carry next to my heart. I'll print it in small type so that buzzard next to you in the subway can't read it over your shoulder.

"The 25-year-old baby food industry, which first saw the light of day in the basement of a private home, has grown into a strapping $100,000,000-a-year business. Makers of baby foods base their prediction of future growth on the sharp upturn in the birth rate. With new marriage figures running high, baby food producers expect the birth rate to continue close to record levels for the next few years."

Do you get it? A few shares of Chopped Carrots common will make you rich. When the moon comes out round and yaller, when Perry Como gurgles "They Say It's Wonderful," when Bennett's advertises a new shipment of black sex negligees—they're all working for you, pal, they're all working for you!

THIS is one enterprise that John L. Lewis can't organize—that Senator Bilbo can't legislate out of existence. Even the taxes can't hurt business. When it rains—you can start clipping those coupons.

The flicker factories, the perfume peddlers, the giggle-water merchants—everyone is conspiring to sky-rocket your dividends. That soulful gypsy violinist is money in the bank. That flower shop on the corner is your neighborhood representative.

Outside of navigation, this is the only business that cashes in on the stars. Latch on to this Klondike, pal. Hock your watch and grab a seat on the gravy train. Stash away a hundred shares of Baby Food preferred and some day Rockefeller will be inviting you out to lunch.

Remember you're investing in your country's future.

It's an Old Saying

By TRUMAN TWILL

So a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush. Who knows how many birds are in the bush? What kind of a bush is it? If it is a lilac bush, there might not be any birds in there at all. It's time people began to challenge some of these old sayings.

Agitators make people discontented by describing things they know nothing about, like two birds in a bush. They might as well say a fish in the hand is worth two fish in the bath tub. If there are two fish in the bathtub, no one ever saw them.

But just saying so might give people ideas. They hear someone say something about two fish in the bathtub or two birds in the bush and they repeat it. That is the way rumors start. The idea gets around that all bathtubs and bushes have wild game in them.

This attracts fishermen and hunters armed with live bait and artillery. They go to work on all the fish and birds and before long it is necessary to pass a law about conserving fish and game. This is not so much because of the game that have been killed as it is the fishers and hunters, who were annoyed at not finding anything and began to destroy one another.

The law brings on law-enforcers sticking their noses into other people's business, and one day a snoop sees Old Man Whathisname with a bird in the hand. This is what he has been advised to do since he was a little boy—keep a bird in the hand. But his story doesn't hold water, so Old Man Whathisname is dragged off to the cooler as a poacher.

He is guilty of no misdemeanor. He is the helpless victim of a saying that started obscurely somewhere about a bird in the hand being better than a bird in the bush. He never questioned this. He did not look a gift-bird in the mouth. He never had any misgiving except the morning he threw the bird out the window, quite early, and told it to get the worms.

"What worms?" asked the bird, standing on one foot and looking up. "It's too early for worms. Come down here and let me in the house and be quick about it."

Old Man Whathisname should have guessed then that old sayings are a lot of nonsense people go on saying because they've no original. Instead of a bird in the hand being worth two in the bush, it's a bond in the lock box that's worth five to one at the track. There's some sense to that.

Explaining Petrillo

"It is easy to rail at Petrillo as the personification of an unprincipled labor boss taking out his spite on society. But the case is not so simple," says a Washington Post editorial. "Mr. Petrillo represents in effect the displaced persons of a greatly overstocked profession. He is the modern symbol of resistance to technological change on the part of persons who see their jobs evaporating.

"Mr. Petrillo would answer this dilemma by forcing more widespread employment of musicians through restriction of technological advance. Carried to its extreme, that would mean that no new invention could be applied when it meant displacing a worker. Such a practice, which is a form of featherbedding, would soon chill incentive. In Mr. Petrillo's own union is to be found part of the solution. The great majority of AFM members are not full-time musicians. They have come to the realization that there is not enough work to go around for the number of qualified professionals and have adjusted their lives accordingly. They know there is no security or satisfaction in made work. Mr. Petrillo would earn a great deal more sympathy for the plight of displaced musicians if he sought to ease their transition into other fields instead of merely striving to perpetuate a situation which in reality no longer exists. In this respect, moreover, society has no obligation."

WARSAW, Poland — A recent order of the council of ministers permits peasants operating small farms to pay their land taxes in agricultural produce.

The move is designed to aid "the recovery of the countryside" and relieve peasants of cash payments.

Blond Stripteaser Held As Planner For Bandit Group

By The United Press

BILOXI, Miss., Aug. 13—A blond striptease dancer was held today as a beautiful bandit queen whose two male accomplices allegedly committed at least one murder and three robberies.

Police Chief Louis Anglada said Marjeretta Gray Crabtree, 29, good-looking and high-tempered, admitted that she planned the robberies and sent the men to do the job after giving them narcotics to bolster their nerve.

Mrs. Crabtree, who ran away from home when she was 15 for a dancing career, then became a bandit queen when men fell for her charms, got most of the swag, police said. One of the holdups resulted in the fatal shooting of a restaurant proprietor.

Anglada said the woman gave the men shots of morphine before each holdup "so they would have plenty of nerve."

She said she was planning to hold up the Louisville and Nashville railroad station for a "big haul" when police stepped in.

Held with the dancer were Noahson B. Walters, 24, who was arrested here, and John Robert Tall, an A.W.O.L. soldier from nearby Keesler field. Tall was arrested in Columbus, O., by the FBI.

No charges have been filed against Mrs. Crabtree and Walters. District Attorney Luther Maples said charges probably would be filed in Gulfport, Miss. A murder charge already had been filed against Tall, who will be returned here from Columbus.

Man Sought in Murder Of Family Found Dead

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Aug. 31 — The body of William H. Sharp, 42, charged with the murder of his wife and small child, was found today in Indian creek, Ft. Pleasant, Clermont county.

Sharp's wife, Virginia, 31, and daughter, Barbara Jean, 4, were found strangled in their beds in the family apartment Monday.

A charge of murder was filed against the man after several notes had been found in the apartment, indicating he intended to commit suicide.

Two members of a Cincinnati pleasure boating party found Sharp's body lying face downward in the creek near Grant's memorial bridge. They were Darwin Stephens, retired business man, and Miss Anita Kennedy.

Sharp's automobile was found parked on the creek bank nearby.

A note, left on the seat and weighted down by a box of .32 calibre shells, stated:

"Look under the little bridge."

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rexoid Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blood disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

The American motion picture industry, which has threatened to stop sending films to Britain, is "willing to cooperate" in finding a new solution, Johnston said.

Fire Destroys Barn On Farm Near Dunkirk

Special to The Star

KENTON, Aug. 13—Fire, evidently starting from spontaneous combustion in stored hay, late Monday afternoon destroyed a large barn and small hog shed on the Harry Musgrave farm southeast of Dunkirk.

The Dunkirk Volunteer fire department was called and finding flames at the barn and hog shed out of control, devoted its efforts to saving the residents and other farm structures.

Besides the season's crop of hay, the barn contained some grain, baled straw, farm machinery and numerous small articles.

Mr. Musgrave was unable to estimate the exact loss.

YOUR HEALTH

Colitis and Ulcers

INFLAMMATION of the large bowel is known as colitis. In one of the most stubborn forms of this disorder, ulcerative colitis, ulcers form along the wall of the bowel and cause destruction of parts of its lining membrane.

We do not know exactly what causes these ulcers to form, but modern studies indicate that germ infection may have a great deal to do with it.

The signs of ulcerative colitis are quite definite, consisting usually of attacks of diarrhea, or frequent bowel movements which contain blood and pus. Hence, a diagnosis is not difficult to make but if doubt remains the doctor can actually see the ulcers by examination with the proctoscope, an ingenious instrument made up of a tube, lenses, and a light which can be passed into the lower bowel. Diagnosis can also be aided by X-ray.

Dr. Ralph H. Major of Kansas City, Kan., has treated a number of these patients with new forms called Nisulfadine and Nisulfazole.

The patients were put on a bland diet, that is, one which contained no bulky foods or highly seasoned foods. If the patients had very frequent bowel movement, they were given some form of opium, such as paregoric. If they had lost much fluid from the body due to frequent bowel movements, they were given injections of salt solution under the skin. The drug known as belladonna was used to stop griping.

The sulfonamide preparations were given by mouth, either by tablets or capsules. Later on, the drug was administered by injection into the lower bowel. The latter method of treatment was better, in that it produced no sickness to the stomach or nausea.

Thirty-four of thirty-seven patients treated in this way recovered, while the other three improved to a great extent. By recovery, it was meant the patients become free of symptoms and did not have more than two or three normal appearing bowel movements daily. However, ten of the patients later suffered from relapse; that is, the symptoms recurred.

A number of the patients have continued taking the sulfanamide preparations over a long period of time, that is, from seventeen to twenty-six months, and no reactions have occurred as a result.

Dr. Major does not assert that the patients are permanently cured, but the results obtained which he outlined seemed to be excellent and better than those obtained with other forms of treatment.

2 INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

One of Three Mishaps Listed in Marion Traffic Yesterday.

Three traffic accidents, one of which sent two Marion men to City hospital, were reported to police Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Cars driven by John Chaffin, 19, of 824 Adams street and by Wendell Yost, 25, of the Georgian apartments, South State street, collided at the intersection of North Grand avenue and East Farming street about 4:50 p. m.

According to the police report the Chaffin car was going north on Grand avenue and the Yost car west on East Farming street. Both cars were turned completely around and came to rest on the northwest corner of the intersection.

Both men were taken to the City hospital for treatment and released. Yost was treated for abrasions of the cheek and shoulder and Chaffin for lacerations of the face and jaw. Both cars were removed by wrecker.

Cars driven by James W. Myers of 229 Thew avenue and Richard Lusch of the Twin Oaks apartments collided at the intersection of South Main and Columbia streets about 5 p. m. Tuesday.

The Myers car, which was southbound on Main street was making a left turn into Columbia street and the Lusch car was northbound on Main street. Minor damage to both cars was reported.

The third accident occurred about 7:38 p. m. at the intersection of South State and Church streets. Cars driven by Jeanette Peifer of 517 North Main street and Lowell L. Cook of 140 Chicago avenue came together when the Peifer car made a left turn in front of the Cook car, which was unable to stop, the police report stated. There was slight damage to both vehicles.

Hughes-Brewster Fued Turned Over To Subcommittee

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13 — Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich.) said today it will be up to his war investigating subcommittee to decide whether to probe deeper into the "side issue" feud between Howard Hughes and Senator Brewster (R-Me.).

But Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) declared in his view the next step, if there is one, will have to be taken either by the full senate or the justice department.

The two ranking members of the subcommittee outlined their opinions in separate interviews as the customs bureau stepped into the picture in an effort to make certain the main Hughes inquiry can get under way again Nov. 17.

Frank Dow, acting commissioner of customs, notified collectors at all ports yesterday to stop John W. Meyer, Hughes' free-spending publicity man, if he tries to leave the country.

Meyer's unexplained absence last Saturday after an earlier committee subpoena for him expired was one of the reasons Ferguson cited for ordering a postponement in the two old investigation into Hughes' $40,000,000 worth of wartime airplane contracts.

Meyer was reported to have been in New York yesterday.

With Hughes back in Hollywood, Brewster vacationing in Maine and most subcommittee members turning their attention to other matters, there was little left here to keep the controversy alive. But Brewster said at Portland last night that "we've just begun to fight"

Former Marionite In Girl Scout Office

A former Marion woman, Mrs. John Jacoby, was named recently as office secretary for the Juliette Low council of Girl Scouts at Oil City, Pa., it has been learned here. She is the former Miss Miriam Gilmore of Marion, and with her husband and two daughters, Ann and Margaret, moved to Oil City from Marion about five years ago. Mr. Jacoby was an employe of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. here.

Mrs. Jacoby's new duties will begin Sept. 8. She will take the place of the present local council secretary who plants to enter professional Girl Scout work. Active in the Oil City council since March, 1944, she became at that time leader of Brownie Troop No. 8 there, and is at present Brownie organization chairman of the board and leaders club representative to the board. While in Marion she was interested in Girl Scout work through her daughters who are members of a troop here. She was enrolled in a Girl Scout training course at Natural Bridge, Va., last March, and had previously taken leadership courses here and at Oil City, and spent one summer as counsellor at a Girl Scout camp.

RHODES SEEN TAKING COLUMBUS ELECTION

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 13—Mayor James A. Rhodes' showing in Columbus' non-partisan municipal primary made him a favorite today to become Columbus' first second-term chief executive in 16 years.

Rhodes, a Republican, polled 49.1 per cent of the mayoral vote cast in yesterday's light balloting which attracted only 45,876 of 116,457 registered electors to the polls.

Complete unofficial returns gave Rhodes 22,395 votes, to 12,391 for W. Herbert Dailey, Democrat, and 10,761 for Floyd F. Green, independent Republican and former mayor.

Rhodes and Dailey won nominations as a result of the voting and will oppose each other in the Nov. 4 election.

At Dayton, county CIO leader Charles E. Sims led a field of seven in a non-partisan primary race to nominate four candidates for two city commission posts.

Sims polled 6,698 votes. Fred A. Speice, incumbent seeking a third term, had 6,023; C. Josef McLin, Negro undertaker, 5,936, and incumbent Charles E. Smith 5,532.

Voters in a special election at McArthur, Vinton county, favored a municipal light plant for the town by a vote of 377 to 197.

In early experiments, frog skin was used for human skin grafts.

Two Reported Killed In Palestine Strife

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, Aug. 13—Two Arabs were reported stabbed to death and six Arabs and two Jews suffered knife wounds in three separate incidents today in the slum quarter between Jaffa and Tel Aviv.

The stabbings raised to 10 killed and 25 wounded the casualties resulting from racial strife which broke out Sunday night.

Troops of the British First Infantry division were stationed throughout the trouble area in an effort to avert further bloodshed, but military authorities in Jerusalem said no curfew was contemplated at the moment.

Dutch Say Indonesians Violated Truce Terms

By The Associated Press

BATAVIA, Java, Aug. 13 — A Netherlands army communique said today that one Dutch soldier was killed and 16 were wounded yesterday in Indonesian violations of a cease fire order in Java and Sumatra.

The communique made no mention of any fighting east of Bandoeng, in Java, where the Indonesians yesterday said the Dutch were engaged in a campaign to seize strategic points on the railway to the Republican capital of Jogjakarta.

An army spokesman intimated, however, that if there was any fighting in that area it was to be considered by the Dutch in the nature of mopping up operations and not as a cease fire violation.

Typewriter Reported Stolen from School

Theft of a typewriter from the Forest Lawn school was reported to police at noon yesterday by Henry Holland, 210 Harrison street, the school janitor. He reported the building was broken into Tuesday night, Aug. 5, and that entrance was made by forcing the fire escape door on the second floor. The missing typewriter is valued at $75.

Administration Spurns Price Control Request

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13—Administration quarters today brushed aside the CIO's proposal for restoration of price-ration controls as politically impossible and economically undesirable at the present time.

Emil Rieve, chairman of the full employment committee of the congress of industrial organizations, demanded enactment of legislation to re-establish controls on speculative commodities and roll back prices to the level of June 30, 1946, when the OPA went out of existence.

Government economists not only consider such a program impossible of achievement in congress but also doubt the wisdom of a return to wartime regulations. They say the present situation is not "acute" enough to warrant such steps.

These experts believe the nation will have to just "sweat it out" for the next six months or a year.

City's Hospital Needs Pointed Out in Doctor's Talk To Club

Urgent need for more adequate hospital facilities in Marion was stressed by Dr. Frederick T. Merchant when he spoke before the Rotary club in its weekly luncheon meeting Tuesday at Hotel Harding. His subject was "The Hospital and the Community."

Not only are the hospital facilities inadequate, but, he declared, control at the hospital should be constant and not changing as at present. To accomplish this, Dr. Merchant said, it must be kept out of politics. A serious problem in Marion was declared to be "how to make control of the hospital constant."

Dr. Merchant emphasized that if a major catastrophe should happen in or near Marion the hospital here could not care for the casualties. He said a whole floor of the present hospital is not finished and many times no beds are available for the patients who must have medical attention. Since a large area is served by the local hospital, sometimes one-third of the patients are from outside the city.

Comparing Marion and its hospital facilities with Newark, which at present has a hospital expansion program, Dr. Merchant explained that the cities are similar in size of population. Newark, he said, has made studies, has faced its problems and is now trying to solve them.

Improvements in a hospital, Dr. Merchant declared, will attract more patients and cut down cost per patient. He said gradual progress has been made in Marion, and he praised the Women's Auxiliary of the hospital board for its fine work.

Further discussing the Newark program, Dr. Merchant explained that the hospital there, like all recognized hospitals in the country, operates in compliance with the state and other laws that apply to hospital and the care of sick, also under the regulations laid down by the American College of Surgeons in its efforts to improve the quality of hospitals and the medical care to the sick and injured.

In answer to the question that is asked so often, "Why are hospital bills so high?" Dr. Merchant explained that hospital bills are high for the same reason that general costs are high. A large factor is that nurses formerly worked 12 hours per day, compared with their present 8, and for less than half the monthly wage they now receive.

Favors One-Hospital Plan

Dr. Merchant stressed the fact that there should be no competition, not more than one hospital in a city the size of Marion.

The problem of the hospital is not necessarily the problem of the doctors, but is a community problem, he said, and that community attitude should change. The Marion hospital is well equipped and is kept clean, and all hospitals, regardless of size, have a yearly shortage of nurses, especially during vacation time, he said.

Visiting Rotarians were Herman Van Houten of Claremont, N. H., Jud Davis of Carlisle, Pa., Edward G. Potter of Lima, and G. R. Ellis of Upper Sandusky. Guests were Clyde Pierson of Lima, W. A. Terral of Akron, H. G. Oliphant of Warren, W. G. Sutgerland of Toledo, Clay Bryant of Zanesville, manager of the Zanesville Dodgers baseball team, and Louis B. Conkle of Marion.

REPRESENTATIVE DIES

OTTAWA, O., Aug. 13—Charles H. Veach, 69, Putnam county representative in the Ohio house of representatives, died of a heart attack today at his home in Kalida.

BRITAIN

VI opened the session last Nov. 12. Railroads, long distance motor transport, canals, electricity supplies and real estate development have been brought under public ownership.

The coal mines, the bank of England, atomic research and civil aviation were nationalized during the 1945-46 session—the first after Labor came to power.

Perhaps the most historic action of the session now ending was the granting of freedom to India, while among the most hotly contested steps was the adoption of legislation providing for a year's compulsory military service for young men reaching 18.

The generally smooth flow of Labor-sponsored legislation was disturbed near the end of the session, however, when differences among the 393 Labor members developed apace with the darkening economic clouds.

Gas Firm Seeks To Build 84 Miles of Pipeline

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13—The east Ohio Gas Co. of Columbus has requested authority to build 84 miles of 20-inch pipeline to carry additional natural gas from the big inch pipeline, the federal power commission announced today.

The Ohio company said it needed to supplement its supply to meet increased demands.

The East Texas Transmission Co., operator of the Big Inch, has agreed to augment East Ohio's present supply if the Ohio company starts building the necessary facilities by February, 1948.

The new pipeline would cost $3,200,000 and run from the Mullet farm valve station, Monroe county, O., to the Gross farm valve station, Stark county, O.

Four Killed in Army Bomber Plane Collision

By The Associated Press

MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 13—Four persons met fiery deaths when an Army A-26 bomber—similar to that William P. Odom flew 'round the world in record time — and an advanced army trainer collided in the air last night within a mile of Grenier army air field and crashed in flames.

The trainer narrowly missed several residential district houses as it plummeted to earth and finally smashed into a garage, setting it afire. The bomber crashed three miles away.

The army identified the trainer plane pilot as Major Cullie B. Harris of Oklahoma, an Army student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The names of the bomber passengers, all Army personnel, were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

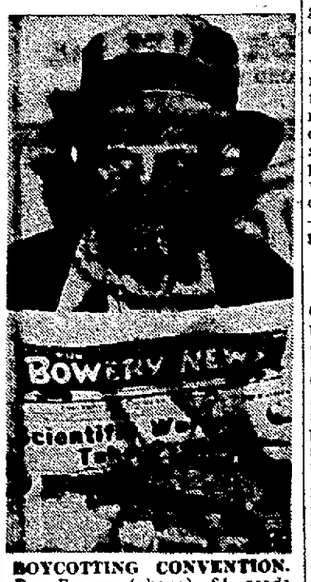
June, July Called Tough For Ohio's Bootleggers

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 15—Ohio bootleggers had it tough in June and July, acting state Liquor Enforcement Chief Floyd C. Moon disclosed today.

Cooperating with local authorities, Moon's inspectors took part in 72 raids on bootleggers, arrested 92 persons and obtained 78 convictions in local courts, the enforcement chief declared.

Convicted persons paid fines totaling $13,000.



BOYCOTTING CONVENTION. Ben Benson (above), 64, reads a copy of the Bowery News, in Chicago, where he said the annual hobo convention this year is "for phoneys", and he is boycotting it. "To be a bona fide hobo, you got to be on the bum half the time, absolutely pay no fare, and positively be a single man without a wife," Benson said. The five-foot, 110-pound Benson says he has been the "real king of hoboes since 1940."

Park Attendance Increase Continues

City park attendance continued on the upgrade last week as three of the playgrounds reported attendances of over 1,000 each.

McKinley led in attendance with 1,795, Garfield had 1,098, Lincoln 1,083 and Silver Street 450. The total attendance was 4,426.

Improvements listed for the week consist of the purchase of tennis equipment for the courts at McKinley and Lincoln.

Ohio Job Classification Committee Convenes

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 13—A commission created by the Ohio legislature meets here today to begin study of state job classifications and salaries, and another group starts a survey of labor problems Aug. 20.

The legislature appropriated $50,000 for work of the 18-member salary study commission, which is due to report by Jan. 15, 1949.

Sen. Roscoe R. Walcutt (R-Franklin), chairman of the Ohio postwar program commission, announced members of a labor study sub-committee yesterday.

The law providing for creation of the labor commission does not become effective until Sept. 30. It was enacted after Herbert vetoed the Van Aken labor bill designed to provide labor unions with greater responsibility.

Paraguayan Loyalists Claim Rout of Rebels

By The Associated Press

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 13—An official Paraguayan source here said rebel forces were fleeing from their positions around Asuncion today after suffering a sharp defeat at the hands of loyal Paraguayan troops in the latest action of a five-months-old civil war.

This informant said Loyalists were "tenaciously pursuing" the retreating insurgents in the direction of Piquete Cue and Villeta, north of the capital. An earlier official announcement last night said a Loyalist relief column—pressing down from the north, where the rebel capital of Concepcion was captured on July 31, —had reached a point only 12 miles from Asuncion.

GUILD HAS PROGRAM

The Christian Service Guild of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church was entertained Monday evening at the home of Miss Marjorie Epley of 218 South Grand avenue. Plans were made for an executive meeting Aug. 22 at 7:30 p. m. in the church. RHODES SEEN TAKING COLUMBUS ELECTION
By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 13—Mayor James A. Rhodes' showing in Columbus' non-partisan municipal primary made him a favorite today to become Columbus' first second-term chief executive in 16 years.
Rhodes, a Republican, polled 49.1 per cent of the mayoral vote cast in yesterday's light balloting which attracted only 45,876 of 116,457 registered electors to the polls.
Complete unofficial returns gave Rhodes 22,395 votes, to 12,391 for W. Herbert Dailey, Democrat, and 10,761 for Floyd F. Green, independent Republican and former mayor.
Rhodes and Dailey won nominations as a result of the voting and will oppose each other in the Nov. 4 election.
At Dayton, county CIO leader Charles E. Sims led a field of seven in a non-partisan primary race to nominate four candidates for two city commission posts.
Sims polled 6,698 votes. Fred A. Speice, incumbent seeking a third term, had 6,023; C. Josef McLin, Negro undertaker, 5,936, and incumbent Charles E. Smith 5,532.
Voters in a special election at McArthur, Vinton county, favored a municipal light plant for the town by a vote of 377 to 197.

Notch Victories in Homer-Highlighted Play.

Moose Lodge, Co. M, Tong Implement, and Schlairet notched victories in Commercial league softball games last night.

Moose took DeMolay, 12-1. Borham was the game's leading hitter with three in five trips to the plate. One of his hits was for four bases and Hickman and Lewis also homered.

Six circuit blows were registered as Tong Implement defeated Standard Oil, 16-6. Jim Ward hit two, Barringer, Butler, and Kaelber each hit one and on the Standard Oil side R. Gorby did the same. Besides his two homers Jim Ward got two other safeties in five trips and John Ward hit three for five.

In the other game of the night Schlairet routed American Legion, 31-3.

Woman Claims Fourth Set of Natural Teeth

By The United Press

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — A 61-year-old Springfield woman says she is growing her fourth set of natural teeth.

New teeth grew in as fast as old ones were extracted, she said, until she had a complete third set. They were better than the previous teeth, she said, until a few years ago when a dentist extracted four of them.

Now, she reported, four new teeth are growing to take their places.

LEGION POST PLANS FOR DISTRICT MEET

Marion Group Going to Session at Marysville.

Plans were made to attend a sixth district meeting Monday night, Aug. 18, in Marysville when Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, American Legion, met Tuesday night in the Legion Dugout.

The main order of business will be election of a district commander. The reason for this is that the district was recently divided into two districts, the sixth and twelfth, and the present commander then became head of the 12th district. D. J. McDonald of Marion, who was vice commander-elect, is now running for the office of commander of the sixth district.

A caravan will leave the postoffice here at 7 p. m. Monday to take any Marion Legionnaires to the meeting. The delegates to the recent state convention will attend.

Reports of the state convention held recently at Cincinnati were given by the delegates, J. Albert Dripps, C. B. Morris, Howard Cross, D. J. MacDonald, Newton Cunningham, Jewell Ralston, R. C. Burklew, Curtis Laubner, John Moore and William Arndt.

Nomination of officers for the new year was held and election will be held at the next meeting, Aug. 26. Installation will be Sept. 9.

Herman Melville, author of "Moby Dick" and a dozen other books, stopped writing before he was 40 years old and passed the last years of his life as a customs inspector in New York City.

2,200 WATCH BRUINS AND JITTS LAWRENCE HUMBLE BUMS, 11 - 4

John Edington Slated To Hurl Tonight's Tilt Against Dodgers

By DON BURTON

Over 2,200 Marion fans enjoyed another thrill-packed nine innings of baseball at Lincoln park last night. The Cubs swamped the league leading Zanesville Dodgers for the second consecutive time in the crucial series here, 11-4, to cut the "Bums" lead to five games with three more to go in the present series.

Two big innings again accounted for the Marion total, four in the fourth and five in the eighth, always the Cubs favorite scoring frame.

The three top men in the Marion batting order accounted for 10 of the 14 Cub bingles. Roy Hollingshead racked up four hits in five attempts, John Smith three in five and Mel Nelson three in four. Jitts Lawrence also kicked in with two safeties to aid in his ninth win of the year against four losses.

Allows 7 Hits

Lawrence allowed the Dodgers only seven hits and struckout nine although he walked 11. The two teams still showed the pressure by contributing 10 errors. The Dodgers went to pieces and were charged with six miscues and the Cubs four to make a total of 20 for the two games.

The contest was enlivened by a near riot in the Zanesville fourth. With the bases full of "Bums," Cy Lambert came in to bat for Al Gillet and hit a double to left with two runs crossing the plate. When John Pulcini also tried to score from first on the hit, he was thrown out at the plate. As he slid in with high knee action at Manager Nelson Burbrink, the Marion skipper retaliated with a like measure.

Bryant Charges Forth

This brought Manager Clay Bryant charging in from the coaching lines at Burbrink and the two were ready to clash when Umpires Staley, Chambers and Frech along with several players of both teams intervened. Both were allowed to stay in the game. game.

The Dodgers played without the services of Morris Mikesell, All-Star shortstop, who was confined to his room at Hotel Harding with a temperature of 102, as the result of a tonsilitis attack suffered yesterday.

The two teams tangle again tonight with John Edington slated to take the hill for the Cubs. John, who went through a slump has now won two games in succession to give him a record of nine won and 10 lost. Most of the managers in the league admit that there is not a twirler in the league with more "stuff" than Marion's John. He went through a spell when his team failed to make runs for him and his control deserted him. His last two appearances give reason to believe that he is on the road back.

Marion was the first to score with a run in the first inning on a double by Hollingshead and a single by Mel Nelson, who is playing left field in place of Wally Rasmussen, out with an injured ankle. The Cubs added another run in the third on a single by John Smith, a sacrifice by Nelson and a double by Dwight Maxhimer, begining to show signs of breaking out of a prolonged slump.

Dodgers Tie Score

The Dodgers tied the score in the fourth on a double by Lambert with the bases full which invoked the excitement at home plate.

A big four-run Marion fourth followed soon after the fracas. Jim Forbes got a life when Ken Lien, having a bad night, fumbled his roller. Jitts Lawrence then singled to right. Roy Hollingshead got his second hit to plate Forbes and John Smith tripled for two more runs and scored on a double by Mel Nelson.

The Dodgers got single runs in the fifth and seventh which aroused the Cubs to action in the eighth for five runs. Gene Bobzean singled to right and beat a throw to second on Forbe's sacrifice. In attempting to sacrifice Lawrence bunted perfectly and filled the bases. Hits by Hollingshead and Smith were followed by an error by Ken Lien and a fielder's choice on Burbrink's roller, plated the runs.

Although Gene Bobzean made two errors at shortstop he came up with two of the games' best fielding plays. He went far behind second base to get a grounder from Lien and made a great throw to win a close decision in the fifth. In the ninth Gene leaped high in the air to snag a liner from the bat of Dabek.

EWELL BLACKWELL FAILS FOR FIFTH TIME AS REDS FALL

Old Sol Takes Toll as Blackie Stumbles in Attempt To Win No. 19.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Aug. 13—Ol' sol apparently is one of Ewell Blackwell's worst enemies.

The burning sun proved too much for Cincinnati's lean righthander for the second time in 10 days here yesterday as the Pittsburgh Pirates edged the Reds, 3-2, in an exhausting 12-inning game.

Successive singles by Jim Russell, Frankie Gustine and Ralph Kiner were the deciding blows.

Blackwell visibly was affected by the heat by the time the ninth inning rolled around and the Bucanneers proceeded to nick him for three bingles and the run that tied the score at 2-all.

After two Pirates had been retired, Kent Peterson, the young lefty, came on to finish and was charged with his 10th loss. He has won five.

Kirby Higby, Pittsburgh starter, also was a heat "victim," calling it quits in the seventh. Preacher Roe gave the Reds their two runs in the eighth and was followed by Al Lyons, New York Yankee castoff, who pitched hitless ball the last four rounds to get credit for the win.

Blackwell yielded nine hits in his fourth try for his 19th victory. He has dropped five—three in a row, including the 5-4 New York victory July 30 that snapped his sensational string of consecutive wins at 16.

Jay Cees, Smitty's Schedule Donkey Softball Contest

As if the game isn't difficult enough, the Junior Chamber of Commerce softball team and Smitty's All-Stars are going to play it on donkeys a week from tonight at Cryystal Lake park.

The game is scheduled to start at 9 p. m. and it's up to the donkeys when it'll be over. A preliminary between Smitty's Maids and a Columbus girls' team will open the program at 7:30.

The game is being sponsored by the J. C.'s and funds raised will go into their civic improvement fund. Charles Baker is chairman of the committee presenting the program. Publicity is being handled by Don Flach.

Springfield Nips Muncie; Newark Wins Twin Bill

By The Associated Press

More than half the 954 fans who turned out for an Ohio State league doubleheader at Lima Tuesday night got their fill of baseball and lit out for home before five and a half sweltering hours of play ended in 10-7 and 10-6 victories for the visiting Newark Browns.

There wasn't much in the play of the visitors or the last place home club that justified enduring the heat. Six pitchers handed out 20 walks in the opener, and Newark's victory in the nightcap came on seven unearned runs as three Lima infield errors kept the rally alive.

At Muncie, Ind., Springfield bunched six runs in the eighth frame to beat the Packers, 7 to 6. Muncie pitcher Joe Nuxhall had a 4-0 lead when the rally started, but lost control and walked four men.

Third baseman Carl Hosler of Springfield was hit by a ball while attempting to steal second and taken to a hospital for treatment.

A game previously scheduled for Tuesday night with Richmond at Dayton was postponed and will be a part of a doubleheader tonight (Wednesday).

Galion Plans Semi-Pro Grid Team This Fall

Special to The Star

GALION, Aug. 13—Plans are being completed to have a semi-pro football team in Galion again this year and, with football season drawing near, enthusiasm among players and coaches is running high. Bob Corry, ex-Galion High mentor, and Bob Monnett, ex-Green Bay Packer star, are coaching the team this year.

Galion's semi-pro team fared well last year, winning nine games, losing two, and tying one. The two losses were suffered at the hands of the Massillon Tygers and the Chicago Brown Bombers, the latter team being Joe Louis' representative in the semi-pro field. The Brown Bombers were tied in a previous game.

The schedule for this year is not complete as yet, but Galion fans will see some of the strongest semi-pro teams in the state in action this fall.

Some of the hold-overs from last year's team are: Gene Goldsmith, Porky Ernst, Louie Cellini, Mike Pangallo, Bernie Smith, Frank Parrish, Gene Thayer and Sal Madrano.

Gets His Chance at Gold Belt Thursday

Gordon Hessell, who won over Billy Fox two weeks ago gets his chance at the American Junior Heavyweight Championship Gold Belt when he meets Billy Rayburn Thursday night at the Marion Armory. Their match will be the two hour main event with the best two out of three falls to win and this match should bring out some of the best grappling seen in Marion in a long time as both wrestlers are very fast and know just about all the tricks.

The one hour semi-final should be a rough affair for Sammy "Red Devil" Kohen takes on rough-house Gil La-Cross of Boston. Their match will be for the best two out of three falls.

A ten minute opening match at 8:30 is between a couple of local boys, Burton Patterson and Walter Hall. No advance in prices for this championship match. Call Markert and Lewis early for your best ringside.—Adv.

AL GETTEL PITCHES ONE-HIT SHUTOUT WIN OVER DETROIT

Joins Black as One of Cleveland's "Castoff" Hurling Stars.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Aug. 13 — The Cleveland Indians are doing quite well these days with a pair of castoff hurlers.

First there was Don Black, who came back from the minors to join Alcoholics Anonymous and hurl the American league's only no-hit game this season.

Now it's Allen Gettel, the former New York Yankee who came up with a one-hit shutout against the Detroit Tigers last night.

Gettel seemed to suffer under the Yankees' frequent managerial changes and never was very happy there.

Manager Lou Boudreau believed the 29-year-old righthander would provide part of the answer to his starting pitcher problem, so the Indians obtained Gettel, pitcher Gene Bearden and outfielder Hal Peck in a winter swap for catcher Sherman Lollar and second baseman Ray Mack.

Gettel has made that exchange look good from the Indians' viewpoint all season but never better than last night against the Tigers.

A fluke first inning double by second baseman Eddie Mayor spoiled Gettel's bid to enter the pitcher's charmed circle.

Jack Conway, subbing at short for Boudreau, who was out with a thigh injury, broke with the pitch to his left. Mayo's grounder slipped through Jack's vacated position for a double into left center—and that was all the Tigers had to show.

The Tribe was in Chicago today, and Bob Feller was to open the series tonight in quest of his 15th victory. Lou Boudreau said he hoped to use Feller again Sunday afternoon at St Louis.

Bums and Cards Have 7 Games To Play Against Each Other

By The Associated Press

It begins to appear that the National league pennant race will be settled in the seven games which the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cards still have to play with each other.

Both the Dodgers and Cardinals were beaten yesterday. The Redbirds lost an afternoon game to the Chicago Cubs in St. Louis, 2-1. The Brooks, with a chance to boost their three-game first place margin, fell before the Boston Braves in a night game at Ebbets field, 9-2.

The schedule is very much in favor of the Cards. Although the Dodgers have two games less to play than St. Louis, 44 in all, half of them are against first division outfits—seven with St. Louis, nine with New York, and six with Boston.

Set-Ups for Cards

Of the Cards' 46 remaining games, 17 are with the rest of the first division—seven with Brooklyn, five with New York and five with Boston. They have 19 home games left while the Dodgers have 21.

The Cards definitely are the hotter club at the moment, having won 11 of their last 13 games while the Dodgers have won only three of their last 11.

The Giants and Braves, of course, aren't out of the fight by any means, but Mel Ott's and Billy Southworth's nines cannot establish anything like consistency with their meager pitching staffs. The Giants, in third place, are six lengths off the pace, one-half game ahead of the Braves.

Knuckleball artist Dutch Leonard won his 13th game against seven defeats when he pitched the lowly Philadelphia Phils to a 5-0 shutout victory over the New York Giants in Philadelphia.

Ewell Blackwell failed in his fourth straight attempt to gain his 19th victory as the Pittsburgh Pirates topped the Reds 3-2 in Cincinnati.

Boxox Creep Up

The Boston Red Sox reduced the American league leading Yankees' margin to 11 games with two runs in the last half of the ninth to nip the Washington Senators 2-1.

Allen Gettel, 29-year-old righthander, pitched a one-hitter as the Cleveland Indians swept a doubleheader from the third place Detroit Tigers in a twilight-night affair 3-1 and 11-0 in Cleveland.

Glen Moulder, who previously had won two games in 24 relief assignments, won his first major league game as starter when the St. Louis Browns defeated the White Sox in a night game in Chicago 5-3.

The Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics were not scheduled.

Home Run King of 1904 Era, Harry Davis, Dies

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13—Harry H. Davis, home run king of the American league while playing first base for the Philadelphia Athletics in the early days of the century, died Monday at his home here. He was 74.

Davis, a native of this city, held down first base for the A's from 1901 until 1910 when he was replaced by Stuffy McGinnis. He paced the circuit in home runs in 1904 with 10, in 1905 with eight, in 1906 with 12 and in 1907 with seven.

He was manager of the Cleveland Indians for part of the 1912 campaign, resigning to return to the Athletics as coach—a position he held until he retired from baseball in 1918.

INDIVIDUAL FAVORITES KEEP MARKET GAINS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 13 — Individual favorites continued to make some headway in today's stock market while many leaders faltered.

Large blocks of a few low-quotation issues dropped volume but transactions were frequent after the opening. Gold mines enjoyed an early bulge, then took profits. Gains and losses of fractions to a point or so were pretty evenly divided near the fourth hour.

A certain amount of short covering and buying still were based on the thought that the list was technically in shape to resume the upward swing which was interrupted at the start of August.

Packard Motors was the day's most active performer, coming out in trades of 10,000 to 64,600 shares and showing a trifle most of the day. Among most of the time were Chrysler, Home Stake, Dome Mines, Alaska Juneau, American Smelting, Montgomery Ward, Porcupine, International Nickel (in response to earnings), Westinghouse Electric (on a pleasing dividend), Bethlehem and Allied Chemical.

Intermittent stumblers were U. S. Steel, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, American Can, Kennecott, Du Pont, Johns-Manville, Philip Morris, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio and Standard Oil (N. J.).

MAN ADMITS KILLING WIFE; CLEARS TWO

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Aug. 13—A middle-aged machinist and former butcher has signed a statement, Prosecutor James N. McNally reported today. Admitting that he killed his 20-year-old wife and hacked her body to pieces.

McNally said Harry Treaki, 50, gave up last night his earlier attempt to implicate two others in the Saturday slaying of his wife, Jean, and finally took full responsibility for the act in a formal statement signed after lengthy and intensive police grilling.

The husband, who earlier had been quoted by police as calling his wife a "no-good woman," said in the statement he was infuriated because she was "chasing around" with other men, the prosecutor added.

In a verbal statement obtained from Treaki yesterday, the officials reported, he said he struck his wife with his fist and knocked her down, but insisted Harold (Earl) Kitchen, identified by police as Jean's former common law husband, and Charles MacGowan had helped dispose of the body.

It was only after police produced evidence that Kitchen was in a hospital for treatment of an injured finger at the time Treaki claimed the other man was at the death scene that Treaki broke down and changed his story, McNally related.

Theft and Slaughter Of Chickens Reported

The sheriff's department is investigating the slaughter and theft of seven specially bred chickens at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lauer Kurtz on Route 4, just beyond the North State street city limits, last night.

Entrance to the coop was gained by pulling the staple which held the lock, and the fowls were slaughtered on the premises, apparently by pulling off their heads. The Brown Leghorns, six pullets and a rooster, weighed around three pounds each and had been chosen especially by their owners for their breed.

Last night's theft is one of several committed in the neighborhood during the last few weeks, residents report.

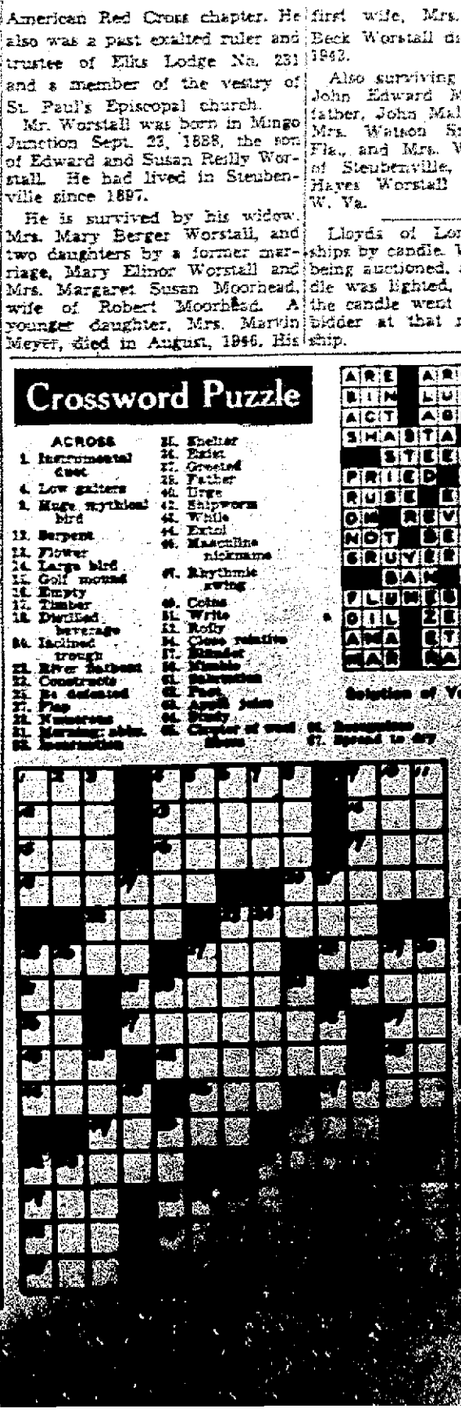
Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle



Theft and Slaughter Of Chickens Reported

The sheriff's department is investigating the slaughter and theft of seven specially bred chickens at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lauer Kurtz on Route 4, just beyond the North State street city limits, last night.

Entrance to the coop was gained by pulling the staple which held the lock, and the fowls were slaughtered on the premises, apparently by pulling off their heads. The Brown Leghorns, six pullets and a rooster, weighed around three pounds each and had been chosen especially by their owners for their breed.

Last night's theft is one of several committed in the neighborhood during the last few weeks, residents report.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

AT Philip Veritzen's startled look at me, followed by the brick-red flush upon his cheeks and the shamed look in his eyes, I felt as if I had kicked over the building-block castle of a child who had spent the whole day erecting it.

But I knew that the edifice of false pride which he had built up through the years, and which he had passed on to his son, who did not want it, the pride of belonging, even by "bar sinister," to the royal family of Transvania—must be smashed, at least as far as the tradition of inherited royal rages was concerned, if Noel and Mary were to have lasting happiness.

Controlled His Rages

"I happen to know," I went on steadily, "that Noel controlled those rages for almost a year before Mary fell ill. I do not know that Mary had promised to have a child if he could prove that he could control them, but from little things I have observed, I believe that she did. Then she fell ill and went away.

"But now that she has returned," I said relentlessly, "it is necessary that both she and Noel should believe that those rages are not hereditary, and can be controlled.

"How are you going to do that Phil?" I finished, and did not dare look at him as I spoke. "I do not know. But I am sure of one thing. It rests entirely in your hands."

He put his face into his hands as I finished speaking, and for several seconds there was a silence that could be felt in my sitting room.

Then he lifted his head and looked at me, and when I saw a whimsical smile breaking the gravity of his lips, I drew a deep breath of relief.

"You never will know how nearly you came to being treated to one of those royal rages, my dear," he said. "I had the impulse to whirl you bodily out of my path."

"I guessed that," I told him, smiling. "But I had to say the things I did. I trust you will forgive me."

"It is I who should ask forgiveness for subjecting you to such an ordeal," he said, with his usual formal courtesy. "Now, just what is it you wish me to do?"

"Two things," I told him. "First, not making an issue of it, letting it appear as casual as possible, make known to Noel your belief that those royal rages are not inherited, but can be controlled."

"I will do that as soon as possible," he promised. "And the other?"

I braced myself for action.

"Mary has not told Noel that she feared inherited insanity from her mother, with complete idiocy at the end," I said. "He has been so happy over her recovery—she put on a wonderful act for him—that I persuaded her it would be wiser for her to wait until some suitable time when they were together in ther own apartment."

Very Wise

"You were very wise," he said. "That news would have upset Noel completely. But," he looked at met keenly, "that is not all you wished to tell me."

"No," I said, drawing a long breath, "it isn't. Mary felt naturally that Noel should be told before anyone else knew, outside, of course, of the people who have been nursing her. But I told her, and she agreed with me"—it was a wonder, I told myself, that I did not blush at that one—"that you were entitled to know the truth without further delay.

"Perhaps I assumed too much," I said, trying to make my voice deferential, for much depended upon his reaction to this proposal, "but I told her that I was sure you would agree not to let Noel know that you had prior knowledge to his of this.

"It will mean so much to both of them," I was going on, when he interrupted me.

"And just why," he asked, "do you imagine that I would be childish enough to boast to my son that I had prior knowledge of something which so vitally concerns him?"
